CHECK OUT THIS BIT OF GEAR FOR A FAST AND EASY SOLO RECOVERY

As frustrating as it can be, getting bogged is part of the adventure lifestyle. Sooner or later you're going to get stuck, so it pays to be as prepared as possible. Snatch straps and winches are great if you've got a tree or mates 4WD as an anchor point, but what if you're by yourself?

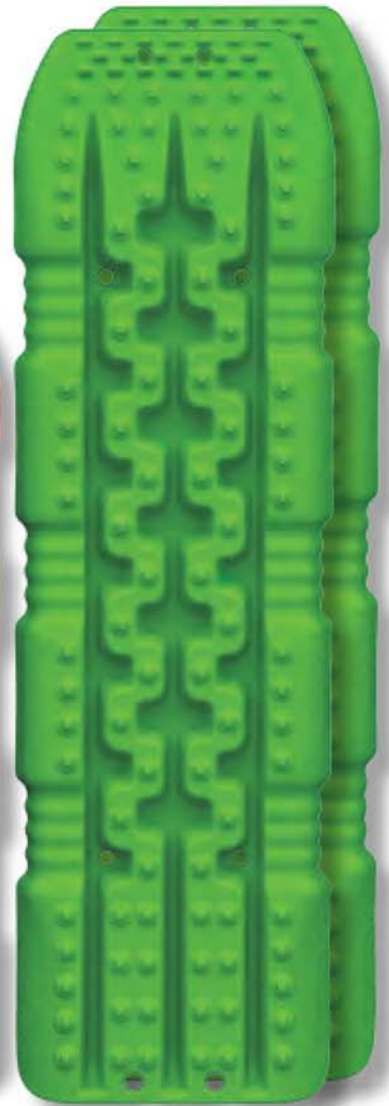

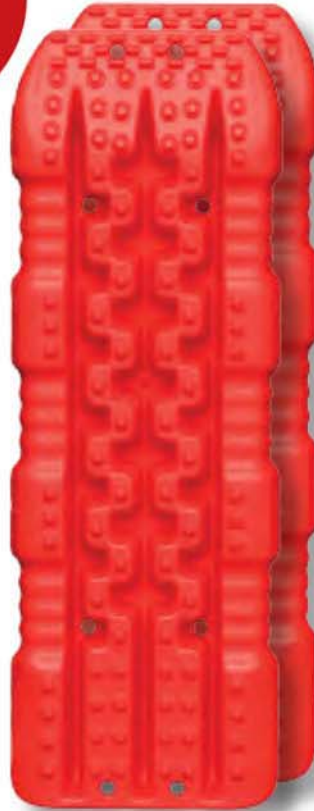

TRED, which stands for Total Recovery and Extraction Device, is a new brand of gear ideal for these sorts of situations, offering traction where you can't get any, and making solo recoveries much easier. TREDs are made from extremely durable polyolefin materials and are moulded in a unique four-channel design for the ultimate in strength and resistance to damage.

They also double as a shovel, so you can use them to dig sand, mud or dirt away from your wheels before placing them in position. From there it's simply a case of rocking your 4WD up onto them, which is made easy thanks to the optimum ramp angle, and then slowly driving forward to solid ground.

A series of linking and mounting points have been included in the TRED design so you can mount them to your roof rack for easy transportation and link multiple TREDs together for bigger recoveries.

Everything about TRED has been well thought out, right down to ergonomic grip handles that make using it as a shovel or moving them

Both 800mm and 1100mm sizes ensure you can get a set of TRED's that are right for you around mid-recovery easy. Superior grip patterns ensure your 4WD's tyres will be able to grip the TRED's as much as possible for best chance of recovery.

TREDs come in two sizes, 800mm and 1100mm, to best match the kind of 4WD you drive. The 800mm model is ideal for SUVs and smaller 4WDs, while the 1100mm will suit LandCruisers and Patrols. TREDs are available from most 4WD and automotive outlets throughout the country. They are distributed by HAIGH Australia, suppliers of the Mean Mother brand of quality winches and recovery products. With this kind of backing, you know they wouldn't be offering you a sub-par product and best of all it's made right here in Australia.

The 800mm TREDs retail for $199 while the 1100mm TREDs retail for $229.
